The purpose of this macro is to import into Microsoft Excel the full content of this database. When a user select a cell in Excel and press Alt+O (or Print Screen), the macro will run, and a saved copy of the selected cell will appear in the Microsoft Clipboard. Next, the user can choose to have the macro run automatically after every new cell update, or manually, whenever he wants. To access the macro, select the icon with three or more arrows on it, and then insert a new Module in your worksheet. Select from the Insert menu the File, Options, and Macro drop-down menus and click on the Data, Import, and Link submenus to load a Microsoft Excel file from the Microsoft Clipboard. Select the file that has the database. Then click on the Import button and the module will load the contents of the database into the worksheet. Important: This macro, as most macros, is not a visual interface, so it requires you to first run it as administrator and open the menu and submenus available in Excel. To run the macro as administrator, you can either open the Excel options menu (Alt+O) and click on the File, Options, and then click on the Macro submenu. Or, you can execute the macro from the Developer Tab and click on the Run menu and then on the Macro submenu. Once the macro is completed, the user can print it with Alt+P (or Print Screen). You can easily place the macro in a cell and then select the cell to have it run automatically. If you don't have Excel in your system or if you want to run the macro manually, just double-click on the icon with three or more arrows and the macro will be run. File Name:
