FIFA 22 introduces a new "Offside" AI system, which uses the player's physical attributes, skin tone and movement data to inform the offside decision. There are a number of gameplay improvements to the FIFA Ultimate Team experience, such as a new "Buddy Shot" feature which allows players to influence each other's saves by passing the ball between each other. Players can also "emote" by picking up a fallen opponent in challenge and passing the ball to a teammate. NEW GAMEPLAY FEATURES: HyperMotion Technology For the first time, all 22 real-life players (on both teams) play a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The FIFA and Player Council teams have access to the same amount of in-game data as real-world players, including off-the-ball information. Using this data, the Player Council makes offside decisions based on each player's physical attributes and the context of the play. This enables players to create more unpredictable gameplay and rewarding decisions. Offside AI System The new Offside AI system uses the player's skin tone, physical attributes, and motion capture data to inform the offside decision. The AI system has also been developed in partnership with the EA FIFA Technical Academy. Buddy Shot Players can now pass the ball between each other, and teammates can pick up fallen opponents to pass to another player. Both players are able to share a shot-saving save to ensure a tight game ends peacefully. Step Free The new Step Free feature allows players to more clearly feel the pitch using the environment. Players can take a step forward when passing or shooting to feel more comfortable with the contact and scale accordingly. New Concept of Player Cover There's now more emphasis on controlling players with the ball with better timing and spacing. The new concept of player cover encourages players to focus and initiate a tactical scheme with more control. For example, a player can decide when to cover a player in possession. NEW TEAM AND SKILLS: British Club Team The introduction of Arsenal, Manchester City and Tottenham is the first time in the history of the FIFA franchise that a team is the only British club team. The British Club Team has been carefully curated by the Player Council to include the best British players. The team kits in-game have been inspired by the British flag and include a variety of national
