With their relentless attacks, reliable finishing and sharp movement, Manchester City's players have overpowered most opponents this season. "This is the most fun I've ever had out on a football pitch" - Raheem Sterling on City's 5-0 Champions League win over Red Star Belgrade in September All-rounder The 20-year-old winger is the star man for a Manchester City side brimming with the talents of Sergio Aguero and David Silva. What Manchester City already have is a truly world class front three and Sterling is bringing it to the rest of the team. Though he has yet to fully hit his stride at international level, he's already reached an impressive total of eight goals and 16 assists in just 25 appearances for his club side. That he's the third youngest player to ever be included in the Premier League top ten goalscorers is something that would be expected of him. For City fans though, he's even more surprising in that he does this so young. An absolute wizard City boss Roberto Mancini knows all about the boy who'd regularly return to his house when he was younger, even at the tender age of five. "I remember playing football with him when he was five or six and I gave him my shirt as a gift," Mancini said. "He showed me a goal he had scored. He's been my player since he was small. He's like my son. He's a great boy." Passionate and fun Another thing that Sterling is known for is his passion on the pitch and his unrelenting approach to football. "I
