Explaining the differences in gender composition of the UK prison service and their association with differences in reoffending behaviour. It has been suggested that men are more likely to reoffend than women. However, this relationship may be a result of gender differences in offending patterns, rather than differences in offending between the genders. The use of data on age- and offence-specific details for more than 11,000 male and 11,000 female prisoners released from prison in England and Wales in 1994/95 was used to assess the extent to which gender differences in offending patterns explain differences in reoffending between men and women. Compared with women, men were more likely to return to prison for multiple offences. However, the higher proportion of male prisoners who returned to prison was accounted for largely by men returning for multiple thefts, whereas the higher proportion of female prisoners returning for multiple offences was accounted for by women returning for multiple property offences. The differences in the likelihood of returning to prison for different offences also appeared to explain a large proportion of the gender differences in reoffending. This finding has implications for service delivery and the allocation of resources within the prison service.KINNEY BANK NAME CHANGE DUE TO $2.5 MILLION FINANCIAL COLLAPSE KINNEY BANK NAME CHANGE DUE TO $2.5 MILLION FINANCIAL COLLAPSE KINNEY BANK NAME CHANGE DUE TO $2.5 MILLION FINANCIAL COLLAPSE On February 14th, 2016, Kinney State Bank announced they are changing their name to Marble State Bank. For months, it was rumored that the KSB name change was a precursor to a possible bankruptcy. Today, they officially confirmed this is the case. There is a peculiar irony to this name change. Many people are familiar with the Kinney family from their Kansas-based KSB, which has been one of the nation's largest savings and loan associations since being founded in 1898. Last year, Kansas Governor Mark Parkinson began talking with the Kinney family about the potential merger of Kinney Bank & Trust, also based in Wichita, and a branch of a small $9 million lender from Savannah, GA. However, such plans for a merger fizzled before
